

Research profile:

Waldvogel (née Oppold), Ann-Marie, Prof. Dr.

University of Cologne
Institute of Zoology
50674 Cologne, Germany
+49 (0)221 470 5294
a.waldvogel@uni-koeln.de

Current position: Assistant professor with tenure-track (W1 to W2)

Family obligations: 1 child, born 2018, maternal leave from 04/2018 to 12/2018

ORCID: 0000-0003-2637-0766 | Web of Science Researcher ID: GYD-8903-2022

University training and academic qualification

- 10/2013 – 09/2017 PhD (Dr. rer. nat.), Goethe-University Frankfurt/Main (supervisor: Prof. Dr. Pfenninger)
- 10/2010 – 02/2013 Master of Science Environmental Sciences, Goethe-University Frankfurt/Main
- 10/2007 – 08/2010 Bachelor of Science Biology, Ruprecht-Karls University Heidelberg

Postgraduate professional career

- 07/2020 – present Assistant Professor (W1 tenure track to W2) for Population Genetics & Zoology, Institute of Zoology, University of Cologne, Germany
- 07/2017 - 06/2020 Research associate (PostDoc), Molecular Ecology Group, Senckenberg Biodiversity and Climate Research Centre Frankfurt
- 10/2013 - 09/2016 Research assistant (PhD student), Molecular Ecology Group, Senckenberg Biodiversity and Climate Research Centre Frankfurt
- 11/2013 - 12/2013 Research assistant for project coordination and teaching, International Field School in Uganda on Limnology and sustainable Ecosystem Management (Prof. Dr. Klussmann-Kolb)
- 04/2013 - 09/2013 Research assistant, Aquatic Ecotoxicology, Goethe-University Frankfurt/Main

Activities in the Research System and Academic Distinctions

- 03/2022 – present Coordinator of LTER-D project “REES” incl. research site
- 01/2021 – present Founding member and coordinator of DeRGA – Deutscher Referenzgenom Atlas
- 01/2021 – present Elected council member (representation of Germany) of the European Reference Genome Atlas Consortium
- 09/2017 PhD thesis awarded with summa cum laude
- 06/2013 Procter & Gamble advancement prize for sustainability for the best Master Thesis 2013

Supervision of Researchers in Early Career Phases

Within the last three years (duration of my tenure-track position) I have or had the pleasure to supervise (main supervisor and co-supervisor) altogether five PhD students. As a mentor, I additionally advise eight PhD students in their projects. Furthermore, I am supervising and mentoring one early career post-doctoral researchers.